i learned to code
by building online radio stations

(2020)	mixity.co (web developer)	I implemented a survey questionnaire and a data visualization dashboard for French startup Mixity. I coded the entire frontend of both apps using React hooks. The data dashboard development led me to perform advanced operations using Javascript.
(2020)	uplabs.com (web developer)	I helped UpLabs founder implement the site's redesign. UpLab's stack consists of Ruby in the backend and React in the front. I had to deal with a large legacy codebase, to deliver pixel-perfect layouts and clean frontend code.
(since 2017)	overdub.dev (web developer)	I have been a freelance frontend developer for the last couple of years. I worked by myself and as part of teams with experienced devs. The projects I worked on involved dynamic interaction with maps and multi-lingual integration. See www.overdub.dev for a complete portfolio.
(since 2008)	iZem (dj and music producer)	I produced music and performed under the stage name "iZem" for the last 10 years. My main goal is to create bridges between contemporary scenes of different continents. I worked extensively with Brazilian and Portuguese-speaking artists. I released my own music on renowned independent labels such as Soundway Records. I also produced for other artists such as Guts, Mayra Andrade and Sara Tavares. My music has been broadcast on BBC Radio, KCRW and many others.
(2007 to 2015)	Groovalizacion (co-founder)	Groovalizacion started as a global multi-lingual online radio station. We were streaming 24/7 and we had dj's and collaborators in various cities around the world. It evolved into an event production and consulting business. I left the company in 2015. The website still exists as an international music podcast / radio shows platform.
(2000 to 2006)	Radio France Internationale (engineer and producer)	I engineered, edited and produced a variety of radio shows on topics such as current affairs, world history, African music, literature, science... I also worked in other radio stations and production studios during the same period.
